

The history of flight

The editor of a magazine is writing an article about the history of flight. She would like to give the readers some information about the increase in speed of airplanes over the years. She would like you to find the speed of some of the famous airplane flights in the first half of the nineteenth century.

Data Table

Date	Name	Flight	Distance	Length of Time
17th December 1903	Wright Brothers	First Flight	37 m	12 seconds
17th May 1913	Domingo Rosillo	First flight from Florida to Cuba	145 km	About 3 hours
20th May 1927	Charles Lindbergh	New York to Paris	5,810 km	About 34 hours
20th May 1932	Amelia Earhart	First solo flight across the Atlantic by a woman	3,261 km	About 15 hours

Student Report

This is our report that shows the speed of some famous airplane flights in the first half of the nineteenth century.

Famous Airplane Flights

Wright Brothers

Average Speed:

Domingo Rosillo

Average Speed:

Charles Lindbergh

Average Speed:

Amelia Earhart

Average Speed:

The concorde was the fastest commercial plane ever built. It could travel about 28,003 km in 12 hours. What was its

